Portraits Statement

I believe that humans are the supreme beings of the universe, created with inherent beauty, proportional balance, and precision. This profound belief drives me to transform these values into visual representations through my portrait paintings, offering moments of delight and contemplation to viewers. The core of my portraits and figurative compositions lies in merging the elegance of outer likeness with the inner personality of the subject.

My talent for painting emerged early in my childhood, as I accurately and proportionately depicted my surroundings. Upon enrolling in art school, my ability to capture the precise proportions and likenesses of live models through quick live portraits and figure drawings quickly gained me recognition. I became a well-known child artist, receiving notable honors from art school instructors, management, society, and the media.

Since the early 1980s, I have created impressive portraits that exhibit extraordinary likeness and beauty for many exclusive clients locally and worldwide.

The art of painting is a unique ability that reveals concealed beauties and realities. It brings me great joy to present the hidden beauties and realities of humanity in my portrait paintings.
